Britain, United States Warn Japan Against Any Intervention In Thailand

claration in Washington that Japan's intentions toward Thailand were of increasing concern to the United States.)

Mr. Eden prefaced his disclosure with the statement that "anything which threatened the integrity or security of Thailand would be of immediate interest to Britain."

He said Britain was especially interested because a Japanese move into Thailand would be "threatening the security of Singapore."

"I hope," he added, "these words may yet be heeded."

Mr. Eden and Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal and deputy leader of the House, spoke on all phases of the war, from the Far East and the conflict in Russia to the Battle of the Atlantic and United States aid. They substituted for Prime Minister Churchill, who was absent.

Tighten British, China Relations

It was announced yesterday that the prime minister could not take part in the debate because he was too busy "with urgent matters connected with the war."

"Every fresh forward move on the part of Japan naturally has the result of making China and ourselves closer and closer together," Mr. Eden said. "That friendship and that collaboration with China will continue and I pray will grow."

He added: "Men and material are pouring out to strengthen our forces in the Middle East for their next forward plunge," and said these would "strike their blows for the independence of the countries in the Middle East just as much as for our independence."

Britain's one policy toward countries between the Suez Canal and the western frontiers of India, he said, was a desire to see them "leading their own life in security and peace."

Mr. Attlee said Japan's attention to Thailand "bears ominous results to the fact that which preceded the invasion into Indo-China." Independent but parallel actions of the United States toward Japan, he said, was a reaffirmation of the community of interests between Britain and the United States where liberty is concerned.

Mr. Attlee was interrupted once by Leslie Hore Belinfante, Liberal National, who inquired, "where are the two fronts?" when the Lord Privy Seal had mentioned that Germany was now forced to face both in the air battles. "The east and west," Mr. Attlee replied calmly. "Where is the one in the west?" Mr. Hore Belinfante retorted. There was no reply. Mr. Attlee said Britain is exercising the "utmost vigilance" in the Far East.

This was especially necessary, he said, because "the tone of the Japanese press does not agree with that of official assurances."

He said the flow of war material from the United States surpassed any such aid during the first Great War. Britain's defenses against invasion are "incomparably stronger" than a year ago.

"There are satisfactory features in the present phase of the struggle which make it difficult for many of us to prevent cheerfulness from breaking in," he said. "There is nothing wrong in being cheerful provided we do not relax our effort. We should realize that our better situation is only comparative. The situation over that of a year ago was that Hitler is now fighting on two fronts, which the German leaders always have striven to avoid."

Invasion of Britain which has been imminent last year was now "postponed," he said, but added that "nothing could be more foolish than to imagine that postponed means abandonment."

He referred to the fight on the Russian-German front as a "titanic struggle" and said "the Russian army and people are putting up magnificent fight."

"It would be very foolish," he said, "for anyone to attempt to forecast the outcome of that struggle. But I think it is a healthy plan to see that the German high command for a rapid victory have not succeeded."

NOT SUBSTANTIATED

"As long ago as July 13 the German claimed the Baltic line had been pierced at several points and that the roads to Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev were open."

But I think it is a healthy plan to see that the German high command for a rapid victory have not succeeded."

It was a good month, on the North Sea and Atlantic coast we destroyed or damaged or put out of action 69 ships totalling 291,000 tons. This was a German ship made on small craft, barges, tugs and the like.

In the Mediterranean the numbers were 23 ships totalling 168,000 tons and 30 were hit and considerably damaged.

Apart from attacks on smaller units and on warships, 482,000 tons of sea shipping were sunk, damaged or put out of action in our convoys.

continue to arrive. From July 11 to July 28 the enemy was unable to broadcast a single claim of a successful attack on a U-boat.

He said U-boats made contact with a British submarine Atlantic convoy in the last few days of July when larger forces were employed and a great effort made.

"A still greater effort was made by Nazi propaganda," he added. The Nazis first claimed to have sunk 116,000 tons of shipping in addition to a corvette and a destroyer.

The next day they boasted the figure to 140,000 tons, giving a vivid description of the convoy protected by a destroyer, an auxiliary cruiser and Q-boats.

Actually, he said, there were no destroyers, no Q-boats, and no auxiliary cruiser. The convoy was protected by Corvettes, which, he said, "knew a very good account of themselves, as the U-boats had to learn."

He could not give details as to the tonnage sunk but knew it was enough to state the Nazi claims represent an exaggeration of at least 350 per cent, and possibly 700 per cent.

THE R.A.F. ATTACKS

He said Britain's air force in the Middle East during July "Delivered 138 attacks on various targets, including Beirut, Benghazi and Tripoli," and "we have lost 235 aircraft while we have destroyed for certain 410 Axis planes."

In the July air offensive against the Italian air force the British attacked towns in Germany and 76 on towns in Germany-occupied territory, and a heavy weight of bombs was delivered with great effect.

"There has been no respite," he said, "and the fighting will be continued and intensified."

He said the "depth to which they generate increases as the night lengthens."

COMMON CAUSE

"We cannot forget," he declared, "the men of many nations are fighting alongside us, but there are millions of people who are with us in a common cause. There is evidence of Hitler's rule in all the countries which he has invaded."

"We cannot forget either the time or circumstances of our victory comes, as some will tell us, and difficulties that we have yet to endure, but we know that when victory comes, as some will tell us, we shall have to take a leading part in establishing the new order of peace and freedom and social justice."

Interpreting War News

Moscow and Kiev fronts has led to a revision of Nazi battle plans. Pressure on the Axis has been continued, but it seems possible that encirclement and destruction phase of Russian armies still holding the Donets front in the south-western Ukraine is being attempted.

DEFLECTION SOUTHWARD

That appeared possible with the first report of a German advance to Bel Tserkov. It appeared to be a deflection southward from the attempt to reach Kiev itself. It is of course a new forward thrust, but it is still southward down the west side of the Dnieper, there still remains little doubt that the Nazi high command has changed its immediate objective to concentrate an effort to sweep the southwestern Ukraine clear of Russian resistance.

It has always seemed possible that a revised German plan that the nature would develop if Red army resistance in front of Moscow proved too stubborn. Nazi spokesmen, including those at Hitler's headquarters, have insisted that destruction of Russian army, not capture of particular cities or territories was the purpose of the attack.

RICH TERRITORY

It is the Ukraine, however, that food stocks and the routes to Russian oil fields, both essential to the German war effort, are located. It is behind that southern flank of the long battle line, also, that the most important Russian industrial centre in the west lie.

Except for the fact that capture of Leningrad might open a route via the Baltic for a sea-borne flank attack on Moscow, there has seemed no great strategic objective involved on that front.

Terms Of Nazi Peace Proposal Heard In U.S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)

light for freedom, Inc. said Tuesday that it had received "from leaders in the German underground movement" terms of a new peace proposal expected to be put forward by the Nazis within the next month.

The organization, which favors active United States participation in the war, listed five major points expected to figure in the proposal, including the temporary withdrawal of Hitler from the German leadership, as a concession to the coalition. British refusal to negotiate with the Nazi leader or his group.

AXIS HEGEMONY

The terms, according to this outline, would include the maintenance, intact, of the British empire, subject to British recognition of Axis hegemony in the Mediterranean, in exchange for which British capital would be encouraged to develop Russia and the Middle East.

The German government, according to Fight for Freedom, seeking "peace" paper organizations in the United States through which to win support for the proposed peace terms here.

According to Fight for Freedom, the first of the German proposals would be for the replacement of Hitler in the leadership of the nation by the "peace-loving" German army.

GERMAN CONTROLLED ARMY

The third proposal would call for the disarmament of all European nations in favor of a "Pan-European army" controlled by Germany.

Besides maintenance of the British empire and encouragement to Britain to make investments in lands requiring refinancing operations—the fourth and fifth of the proposed peace points—the German government would make concessions to Catholic and Catholic churches, with special reference to the Vatican.

It was understood that raids in Germany were fairly heavy. It was the third raid on Mannheim, 24th on Frankfurt and the second on Karlsruhe.

ATACKS NAZI CONVOY

Authoritative sources said that a great weight of very heavy bombs was dropped on Mannheim, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe, inflicting severe and widespread damage. Despite a gale the large force of raiders "met with conspicuous success."

An air ministry communication last night said British planes had attacked a German convoy off the Dutch coast yesterday morning, scoring hits on a 3,000-ton ship and that in the afternoon British planes had bombed German planes in the German coast, scoring hits on three of them. British fighter planes swept the channel and northern France yesterday and bombed German planes on the ground near Cherbourg. Only one British plane was lost yesterday, according to the ministry.

broadest an assertion that the prime minister has arrived in Canada for his first holiday since President Roosevelt "on Canadian soil."

Asked about the enemy assertion, official quarters in London merely repeated the rumor, adding no forbidding disclosure of information concerning future movements of the prime minister.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King led newspapermen today but had no knowledge of any meeting between Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Mr. King met newspapermen at his office where they gathered to see him receive from A. Kleiman, chairman of the Credit for Canada Committee of New York, the first sample of the new paper being distributed in the United States on which Americans may pledge they will spend part of their holidays in Canada.

The card Mr. King received today was that of Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the United States president, at present holidaying at her summer place in New Brunswick.

The newspapermen look forward to the meeting with Mr. King to ask him directly if he knew any more about the rumor that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill were holding on and held a meeting at some undisclosed place and Mr. King answered "No."

Greece May Be Drawn Permanently Within Mussolini's Empire

ATHENS.—(CDN)—Initiating the issue by the German wehrmacht of military money, the Italian forces of occupation have begun spending with a liberal hand more buyon-backed currency, sending the already sunken Greek drachma to levels so low that it is questionable, since it totally lacks gold or silver backing, whether it has any value at all.

The effect of the German inflation through reichsmarkkassenscheine, as the occupational marks are officially known, which have been printed on the spot by the German army's movable two-truck mint, was to clean Greece of all vendable articles and reduce to one-fourth the purchasing power of the drachma.

The suffering among salary-dependent and cash-dependent Greeks has been great. Canada Plane Plants To Get Large Orders

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—(CP)

Mutualities Minister C. D. Howe said the Canadian Press today that orders for more than 1,000 warplanes are to be awarded in Canadian aviation plants.

Total cost not announced, but is understood to run higher than $25,000,000.

Canadian Car and Foundry Company will manufacture 400 Hurricanes at its Fort William plant, after which it will be engaged in turning out single engine Havoc warplanes at the rate of 80 a month for an indefinite period.

An order for 500 Hurricanes is being given Nordavia Aviation Limited, Montreal.

Destination of the planes was not officially disclosed, but there have been unconfirmed reports the machines will be bought by the United States government for distribution in China, the Netherlands Indies and possibly Russia under lend-lease.

"The new contracts will keep the two plants working to capacity well into 1943," said Mr. Howe.

According to the estimate of the Greek financial committee—uncertain as to its own value—Germans still refused to give them any definite figures—the total amount of reichsmarkkassenscheine printed and spent by the Germans was about 3,500,000,000 drachmas. Should the Italians agree to stay within this figure, they will not be able to do so, for their money out of Greece, because the Reich has left to give the price of that little have been raised by inflation of the first-comes.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Wives, if you want your husbands to be successful, make them happy. That will do more for them than anything else to enable them to make the most of whatever talents they possess. For the happy man is a timber who says to himself "Where do I go from here?" While the unhappy man sits down at the foot of the ladder and asks himself "What's the use?"

Ceriously enough, the average woman's husband's home life from his public and professional life and never seems to her to have any bearing on each other. It does not seem to her to make any difference whether he starts to work at a morning with a smile on his face after a gay and pleasant little breakfast, or yawning and frowning after a domestic brawl that has left him so sore that he is ready to commit mayhem on any one with whom he comes in contact.

Yet this mood, which seems so unimportant to the wife, determines whether she knows whether by middle age she will be running in a limousine or hopping a bus. For happiness is first aid to the ambitious. It makes friends for him. It enables him to get along with other people. It opens doors for him which are forever closed to the dour and grumpy whom every one avoids for fear of catching their misery.

A man's efficiency is affected by his state of mind. If he has nothing to worry about, he can give every particle of intelligence he possesses to his job, but if he is mulling over in his head his last fight with his wife and his mind things the said wife, his ability is reduced practically to zero. Many a woman who wonders why her husband doesn't make as much money as some

Points For Parents

Father: "Let's not play any more now. If you'd like to get your new book, I'll read you a story."

Father: "See here—what are you getting mad about? Be a good sport. You know I'm only joking."

If teasing is to be kept within the bounds where it is fun for both adult and child, the grown-up must be able to sense when stopping-time has arrived.

Other men do, who is no smarter than he, it could find the answer in the way she treats him.

So, wives, if you want your husbands to get there, make them happy. Begin by making them comfortable, by giving them a home that is a place of peace and rest where they can gather up their strength every night for the battle of the next day. Feed them well, for as a man eats so he hears and as long as he sells him to be a nervous, dyspeptic wreck at 40, never forget that your husband married you he put not only his heart but his stomach into your hands. It is a sacred trust. Deal with it wisely.

Keep your husband happy by building up continually his faith in himself. The one person whose approbation a man craves more than that of any one else is his wife, and as long as she tells him he is better than Solomon and stronger than Joe Louis he will work himself to death to live up to her praise.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERED

It is always a heartache to parents to have to tell their eagerly questioning children, "No, we can't afford a vacation this year; we'll have to stay at home."

Knowing full well how children love to anticipate change, how they exult in new adventures, parents like nothing better than to be able to indulge them.

YOUR HOME TOWN

But, if one can't leave town, why jump down and make him a case of disappointment? Why not a vacation in your own home town? I'll wager there are dozens of buildings, or factories or industries right within ear or bus distance from your home, of which you are completely ignorant.

Why travel hot miles for change and excitement when you can get it wherever you have and while in your own home? Your children would be as excited at seeing home manufactured, or auto tires made, or newspapers or magazines printed as to travel 500 miles to go through some historic building or gaze at the statue of historic hero.

On vacation you may have travelled days to get where you can swim and hike. What about your own vicinity? Aren't there swimming pools within riding distance? Aren't there hikes you've never known existed? One bit of nature is very like another if you are alert to appreciate it.

And what do your children know of the history which they can see for only a lift of the head? Why not buy a simple treatise on astronomy and study the heavens every night, discovering the stars and planets and constellations? Have fun! And what of the birds and flowers in your neighborhood? There is a feeding platform for the birds and do you know the names of the common flowers and weeds and trees which you can see on any junk on a country road?

All of our vacation for the sake of a change of scenery, work, or food, and to increase our store of information about the world around us. We can achieve all of those at home by seeking out new interests and study by trying our daily menu, by treating ordinary housework with the same indifference we would accord it were we on vacation. And most of all we may add profit, discover our own children. It takes change, sometimes, to do that.

Our leaflet, Common Summer Announcements, discusses sunburn, insect bites, et cetera. It will be mailed to you on request if you will write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

A truly well-dressed woman looks crisp, fresh and pretty the clock round. That's why this little Anne Adams frock, Pattern 4806, is so indispensable. Its neat and lacy lapels, its wide belt, its pockets that continue right down into the shapely waistline. The neckline is cut in a sweetheart shape, "hand-angel" pockets are optional but smart. That back buttoning is not only a stylish note, but it's also convenient for dressing. Make tiny cap sleeves in-line with the bodice, have straight-into-the-sleeves, or omit the sleeves entirely. For gay flashes of color, use rick-rack edging—or have the bodice panel and skirt in slightly contrasting.

Pattern 4806 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 14 takes 3 1/2 yards 3 1/2 inch fabric and 3 1/4 yards ric-rac.

Send 20 cents in coin for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Size, Name, Address and Style Number. Send your order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, 60 Front St. West, Toronto, Ontario.

Allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Your set cord on a "loom" which is really a 3 1/2-inch circle cut from heavy cardboard. To prepare this "loom" for weaving you divide its edge, with pencil marks, into 16 equal sections. Cut V-shaped notches at each mark and a 1/16 inch between any 2 notches.

Then paste one end of the red cord to the centre and carry it across the loom, through a notch, back of notch to adjoining notch and through notch across loom to opposite notch.

Get Busy On Scottie Hooked Rug

Pattern 6334

Making a hooked rug is easy and economical, for odds and ends of materials are just hooked through burlap. These pretty scoties fit in any room.

Pattern 6334 contains a transfer pattern of a motif 12 1/2 x 13 1/2 inches, four 8 1/2 inch corners, materials needed; color chart, illustrations of stitches.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in coin to Household Arts Dept., The Edmonton Bulletin, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

What To Do

Each of London's burlap bolts holds 800 worth of burlap.

How often have we been puzzled by the way in which seemingly well-bred people treat clerks in shops? Perhaps the reason is there to serve you, but not to be treated as dirt beneath your feet.

Always be courteous and don't forget to say "thank you" and "please" as you would to any one else. Don't have a salesperson drag out everything in stock when you have no intention of buying—and don't look at expensive models when you intend to purchase a $198 "special."

If you have a complaint take it to the proper authority. Don't abuse the salesgirl who served you. She has no jurisdiction over an error committed by the store.

INEXPENSIVE DRESSING TABLE

A most attractive dressing table made from a few yards of material, a shelf, an easel mirror and an inexpensive stool. Have the shelf 18 inches from the floor (inches wide) built under a window. Cut the sides with full, straight folds of a sheer lace net to afford plenty of light and complete privacy, and fasten a billowing skirt of the same lace net across the center. The skirt can be finished to match the mirror, and the stool covered with a fabric matching or harmonizing with the general color scheme.

Let's Cook An Outdoor Picnic Dinner Treat

By NELL GAYNOR MADSEN

Just as a Board is a big man who looks like a football player who ate the other fellow's dinner, too. He makes a wicked hamburger. In his latest book, "Cook It Outdoors," change heart diets with this recipe:

"Choose a good piece of the top rib or the bottom rump and leave your butcher grind it. Buy a pound and a half of two pounds of outdoor appetites, use half a pound per person. Have it in one thick slab and be very careful not to squeeze it or press it down. Mold it very tenderly with your hands into a round steak about 1 1/2 inches thick. Pat-don't press. If you are broiling, if you are cooking just at the peak of their glowing heat and slip your steak on a wire grill over the coals.

"Let it sizzle on one side, turn quickly, then sizzle very quickly on the other side. Sprinkle heavily with salt and pepper—the freshly ground pepper and coarse salt are the best—and turn again. Salt and pepper the other side and by that time you should have a perfect hamburger that is crisped on the outside and tender and rare on the inside. Slice and eat with a good slice of onion and with a large helping of succotash and a chunk of French bread."

Here's another gem of outdoor

LINKOGRAM FIVES AND SEVENS

All the verticals are words of five letters, of which a few are in place to help you get started. The top and bottom horizontal rows are each composed of three seven-letter words, whose middle letters are given in place.

The horizontal words overlap each other so that each shares three or four letters with one or more of the verticals. While there may be more than one five-letter vertical that fits certain letters now in place, there is only one solution giving the proper letters both for the linking lines and the overlapping seveners.

No definitions are necessary; just use your own best judgment and ingenuity and you'll be able to complete this Linkogram diagram.

Sale Of Ready Sliced Bread Is Prohibited

"The removal of the wheat processing tax announced late last week and these new economies in manufacture and delivery should, in the opinion of the board, render unnecessary any increase in the retail price of bread," a board statement said.

The new measures—an extension of the board's previous wartime price regulation to encompass all conditions of sale—are being taken to conserve materials, power and labor which can be used more effectively in the national defense program, the statement added.

On and after next Monday a bread company or retailer will be permitted to make a special delivery of bread to householders. Double wrapping and slicing of bread must also cease on that date.

Bakers will be permitted to use up current supplies of multi-colored single wrappers but after that wrappers must be printed in not more than one color on a single colored paper.

Removal of the 15-cents-a-bushel processing tax on wheat milled for domestic consumption was announced last week by Trade Minister MacKinnon.

TO KEEP DOWN PRICE

Only last Saturday Fector M

However, McKinnon said it probably would be correct to say bakers who raised their prices before removal of the tax would not be instructed to reduce prices again, although some might find that action necessary because of public opinion or competition.

that the the bakers had made what would appear to be a "Pretty strong case that it was no longer possible to hold down prices to the existing levels."

Last night's statement said the board's new action was expected to remove the need for increase prices.

ECONOMY MOVE GOOD OFFICIAL DECLARES

"Any move toward economy is good one," declared C. Simmonds, secretary of the Alberta Bakers' Association Inc., commenting on the new regulations. The government's move was not a surprise to bakers here, Mr. Simmonds said, and such a move had been "talked over" by Edmonton bakers in recent weeks.

There has been no rise in Edmonton bread prices, although two Vancouver bakeries Tuesday increased their prices one cent due to the rising cost of ingredients, it was reported, despite the fact that

West Naval Units Moving To Coast

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6. — (CP) — Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve divisions of the three Atlantic navies will send all the men in their active service branches to salt water within the next few days. Commander E. T. C. Orde of the Winnipeg division announced Tuesday.

Cmdr. Orde, who is in charge of the movement of ratings to an eastern Canadian port, said it is the third time since last March that the Prairie division of the R.C.N.V.R. at Winnipeg, Port Arthur, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton have sent all their active service ratings to Canada's coasts for duty.

The ratings moving to the coasts are fully equipped and trained to augment the Empire's rapidly expanding forces at sea and to take specialist courses in the various gunnery, torpedo and engineering schools throughout the Empire, Mr. Orde said.

Song Publishers Moan Blues—Over A Record Year

SMALL-PROFIT DISC SALES SOAR AS MONEY-MAKING SHEET MUSIC LAGS IN SEASON AS WHACKY AS ITS HITS

By TOM WOLF
NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The year 1941, like its current leading tunes "Daddy" and "The Hut-Sut Song," will probably go down in musical history as one of the most unorthodox of all time.

It is a record year literally. For the first time since the halcyon record days of the "Twenties"—when a single recording, like Paul Whiteman's "Three O'Clock in the Morning," sold over 2,000,000 discs—over 100,000,000 records may be sold by New Year's Day, 1942.

More than that, some of Tin Pan Alley's most sacred shibboleths are this year being made to sound way off key. For years music-publishing southseas have been chanting: "Rhythm songs aren't copy sellers." Yet this year two rhythm tunes—"The Hut-Sut Song" and "Daddy"—have run the scale of best-selling sheet music to the top key positions.

While recordings are being bought so quickly that in several instances the manufacturers have been unable to keep time with their orders, many of the country's leading music publishing houses have been mulling expenses and quietly going to the red.

13 RECORDS EQUAL ONE SHEET COPY
The reason for this seeming paradox is not hard to discover. A music publisher receives anywhere from 15 to 18 cents on every copy of sheet music sold. For records, on the other hand, he gets from three-quarters of a cent to one cent per sale. Radio, not records, sells sheet music. And with the ASCAP radio fight (though it seems now all but settled) sounding a very discordant note, sheet music sales so far this year have got the publishers moaning the blues.

Even in normal times, publishers have never been able to blow fanfares over those categories of songs

The singer for Latin-American tunes keeps singers in hands like that of Xavier Cugat, veteran of the tropical tropics, extra busy these days. No wonder his vocalists, Lina Romay, left, takes occasional time out for a bit of fun.

This foursome, the musical Merry Macs, started the nation singing in gibberish when they introduced the "The Hut-Sut Song." Ted McMichael, left, is also one of the song's three authors.

STANDS TO MAKE $30,000
It took a young Hollywood musical director named Walter Schumann to realize the song's possibilities—after almost every big publisher in the country had turned it down. Schumann formed his own music company, published the song. He stands to make around $30,000 on this musical nonsense, which has been recorded by more than a dozen different bands and which will easily sell more sheet music than such hit novelties of yore as "Makin' Good Round and Round" or "Three Little Fishes."

"HUT-SUT" MAKES WISEGUYS WINCE

It had it published by a company in which he owns an interest. Not only is it number one sheet-music seller, but it is currently grabbing more nickels in juke boxes all over the U.S. than any other tune and promises to continue to do so for some time to come.

Juke box record sales are key indices of musical popularity, for the nation's 400,000 gaudy, automatic record players—heard in ice cream parlors, saloons and dance halls the country over—are more responsible than any other factor for the phenomenal rise in record sales this year.

TREND GOES TO LATIN AMERICA

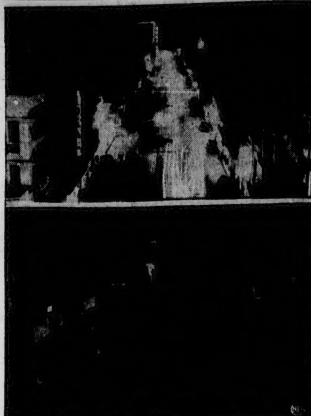

While the sale of records does not make or break music publishers, because the margin of profit is small, records can and do make cabarets. Woody Herman's band, for example, was lost in the welter of relatively unknowns until he recorded his arrangement of "Frenesi." On the strength of this single record, Herman's band almost overnight became one of the nation's top "name" outfits.

The popularity of "Frenesi" incidentally, is indicative of another new trend in this unorthodox musical year. Never before has the U.S. been so Latin-American conscious musically. A hit tune like "Aurora" has been recorded by no less than 16 different bands.

The most popular of the South American tunes at the moment, judging by requests received by Xavier Cugat, long the leading U.S. exponent of Latin-American tempos, is "Babalú." So strong is the Latin-American trend that Bing Crosby, currently the biggest single attraction on records (in one month Decca sold over 300,000 Crosby records), is now singing some Latin-American tunes in Spanish.

If the Good Neighbor policy fails, it will be no fault of North America's music publishers in 1941.

Constantly in Back in City: Visited East

Following a two week's leave, which took him as far east as the Atlantic seaboard, Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commander, was back at his office Wednesday.

Visiting Halifax, he met Brig. C. Connolly, D.S.O., former district officer commanding No. 13 and now serving in a similar capacity at Halifax. He also met Lt. Col. J. A. Brown, former district officer for this district and now stationed at Halifax.

Lt. Col. Brown said Halifax was a busy port, but little can be said of the activities in and around the city on account of its importance in the war effort and the necessity for secrecy.

On the return trip he stopped off at Kingston and Toronto, remarking on a boat at St. John's, he made the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence and returned here by train.

At all points visited he found the war effort geared in "high gear" and proceeding rapidly.

Ottawa Official Visits Edmonton

Making his first trip here and through the west, August Lemieux, K.C., of Ottawa, has been impressed with all he has seen. He was a guest at the Macdonald-Wednesday House.

He plans to continue westward and visit Jasper and the coast, Mrs. Lemieux is accompanying him.

Mr. Lemieux is a brother of the late Hon. Rodolph Lemieux, who was member of the House of Commons, late speaker of the House of Commons for 10 years and later a member of the Senate. He is also a brother of Hon. August Lemieux, a member of the Quebec legislative council.

Mr. Lemieux is official agent at Ottawa of the Quebec government and wishes legislation being passed by the Dominion, studying its effect on Quebec.

Court Studies Tangle About Imported Car

Thomas E. Fitzsimmons of Montreal, U.S.A., was remanded for a Supreme Court trial by Judge Magistrate Miller Wednesday when charged with making an illegal importation of a car into Canada.

He told the court he had purchased the car in question from a Chicago dealer, making the purchase in the name of a Canadian, who then shipped the car into Canada as a tourist.

Accused had given compliance with a bill of sale, however. Later complaint had been received from the customs of the state of Illinois, and was going to notify the customs of the state of Illinois, and was going to notify the customs of the state of Illinois, and was going to notify the customs of the state of Illinois.

Through The Mill

Planning ahead is considered a sign of intelligence and providing you observe the limitations set by law in the matter of sex, it is a sign of wisdom. But a young chap in police custody Wednesday planned no wisely and certainly not wisely.

In allowing his thoughts to dwell on the icy days of winter when the birds were scarce and the skyline summer surroundings, the young man was without thought of his head. And when he remembered that his smart to purchase winter clothing ahead of time and secure the best of the off-season price reductions, he was still using the brain.
